Council Members
Have Headaches
During Four Years

THE COUNCIL: Timmo has covered the activities of Harrisburg city councils for a number of years now and another one is concluding four years of operation. Councils are unusual governmental bodies. Fellows fight their heads off, sometimes making so many deals in the campaign that they never can unwind themselves, all for the privilege of being a city council member at from $33 to $50 a month, with criticism and abuse and long hours of worry just about the only other reward. It's a great experience for the council member—after the term is served and one can look back on it. But during the four years of membership there are plenty of headaches.

In the eyes of some people, every council that is in office is the worst one the city has ever had. That is, four years ago, the council finishing up was the worst one, four years earlier the council for that period was the worst, and four years hence the one elected yesterday probably will be the worst one we ever had to a lot of people.

This is being written Tuesday afternoon, long before there was any indication of the winners for commissioner and police magistrate. And it's a good time to evaluate the council just finishing up its service.

For years Harrisburg councils have done one thing which deserves lots of praise—they have operated in the black. And it looks like the present one will do the same. There are plenty of councils which do not do this—and it takes a strong finance commissioner to see that spending does not get ahead of anticipated income.

All four departments of the present council have done well, in my book. There has been nothing wrong at all with the operations of the finance and the public property departments, and I think the police and street departments have been exceptionally good.

I know I'll get a few haws for that remark, but over all I'm sure I'm right. Of course, no governmental operation can come near to being perfect, and I know there are personal incidents that may have arisen with a number who will take exception to the remark, but all in all, they've been good.

The street department has done a fine job of keeping the unimproved streets in usable condition. Of course, some are pitty and most of them get dusty but they do not have the deep ruts and impassable conditions that we have endured at some times in the

Most of Funds
Would Be For Nations in Asia

President Sends Special Message to House and Senate

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower today proposed to Congress a $3,530,000,000 foreign aid program to meet "the grim essentials of security."

His accent was admittedly on the Far East.

The object of his overall program for the 1956 fiscal year was to keep the free nations against the Russian bastion at fullest possible strength and to hurdle "any obstacles created by the Communists."

"Here is a clear case of interwoven self-interest," the chief executive said in a 3,000 word special message to the House and Senate endorsing a multi-billion-dollar program of assistance to cooperative nations, particularly those in the Far East.

"Immediate threats to world security and stability are now centered in Asia," the President said. "The preponderance of funds requested of the Congress will be used to meet the threat there."

How It's Broken Down

The President's $3,530,000,000 split this way:

For economic aid, $712,500,000.

For defense support, particularly in Asia, $1,000,000,000.

For military assistance and "direct forces" support, $1,717,500,000.

The President based his program on "the best prospects of peace and the grim essentials of security."

The mutual security program recommended by the President reflected to some degree an administration effort to cut down on the dollars going abroad. His total for fiscal 1956 was about 150 million dollars under last year.

He said his foreign aid program was based on building conditions in the so-called have-not nations where freedom could flourish by destroying the cultures of poverty, illiteracy, hunger and disease.

"I consider the program an indispensable part of a realistic and enlightened national policy," he said at the outset of his message, sent to Congress as the chief executive wound up an eight-day work-and-golf holiday at the Augusta National Golf Club.

The President planned to fly back to Washington this afternoon.

Daley to Take Over Tonight as Chicago Mayor

CHICAGO (AP)—Democrat Richard J. Daley, who began his career as a stockyards cowhand, takes over tonight as the mayor of the nation's second largest city.

Daley will be sworn in as Chicago's 40th mayor before an estimated 1,000 spectators in the City Council chambers. He defeated Republican Robert Merriam in a bitter election April 5.

Daley took the final step prior to assuming the mayoral post when he resigned Tuesday night as Cook County clerk. The Democratic-controlled county board immediately named another Democrat, former Illinois Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett, to the post. Barrett was sworn in immediately.

Division Ladies'
Night Meeting
Held at Kiwanis

The Harrisburg Kiwanis club was host last night to a divisional fellowship ladies' night meeting with members present with their wives from the Cairo, Carbondale, Herrin, Jopka, Marion, Metropolis and Vienna clubs. Other clubs in the division are Anna, Cave-in-Rock, Goreville, Murphysboro and Shawneetown.

Lt. Gov. Ray Owen of the Marion club presided at the meeting and called the roll of clubs for the attendance report at the meeting. Special guests introduced at the meeting were Ray Harper of Metropolis, past governor of the Illinois-Eastern Iowa district; C. Wolfe Berbling, Cairo, treasurer of the I-I district; Bob Korte of Metropolis, Asby Snyder of Carbondale, Loy Barger, Harrisburg, and Dr. Floyd F. Cunningham, Carbondale, all past lieutenant governors of Division 16.

Norman Moore, president of the Carbondale club, presented the hostess report at the meeting. The guest speaker for the divisional meeting was Dr. Paul Hunsinger, associate professor of speech at Southern Illinois university, who gave an entertaining address on "The Unfair Sex."

He pointed out that women have "trapped" men until they are in control of their entire lives. He concluded that while women have made fools out of men they also have made men out of fools.

Dan Davis, president of the local club, introduced the speaker.

Lt. Gov. Owen presented certificate awards for 1954 to the following club secretaries: C. Wolfe Berbling of Cairo, George R. Patterson, Carbondale, Ralph Woodard, Harrisburg, August Scherer, Herrin, Charles Rupp, Jopka, Ed Harris, Metropolis, Mason Absher, Marion, and Glen Jones, Vienna.

Speed Limit
Bill Advances
To House Floor

Measure Provides 65 Miles Hour for Daytime, 55 at Night

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Illinois Motor Vehicles Commission speed limit bill—making top highway speeds 65 m.p.h. daytime and 55 night-time—today advanced to the House floor.

The House Motor Vehicles Committee Tuesday voted the bill out with a favorable recommendation. The speed limits would be "prima facie," making driving conditions the first consideration in speeds regardless of the miles per hour speed.

The bill would increase the top speed of trucks from 40 m.p.h. to 45 m.p.h. and of buses from 45 m.p.h. to 55 m.p.h. It would allow the State Public Works Department and county authorities to post the speeds of highways and roads. City governments could set speeds on city streets up to 45 m.p.h.

The bill was drafted by the Motor Vehicles Commission, which spent two years studying Illinois traffic and motor vehicle laws and conditions. The speed limit bill was given a boost in this session by the withdrawal of objection by the Chicago Motor Club, which recommends a prima facie law.

Judicial Article Debated

The House Revenue Committee apparently killed a bill to refund a one-eighth share of the state sales tax to cities according to their population.

Rep. Joseph P. Strenlau (R-Mendota) amended the bill to provide for a one-eighth instead of one-fourth share but the committee voted against the measure, 13-8.

Legislators opposing the proposed amendment to the judicial article of the constitution Tuesday again gave witnesses for the amendment a rough reception.

Reps. Robert Romano (D-Chicago) and Carl Prehls (D-Pana) questioned the qualifications of witness Robert E. Cook, president of the Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce, after Cook said he was not an "expert" on the amendment.

Rep. William E. Pollack (R-Chicago), a sponsor of the amendment, retaliated by questioning the rights of Prehls to interrogate witnesses since he is not a member

Reports from Donald L. Foote's Grover Abney No. 1 oil test in the northwest corner of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of Section 8, Harrisburg township, are that the drillers will continue to drill from the Waltersburg formation on down to the McClosky.

It was reported that in tests of the Waltersburg, the coring looked good but that a drill stem test showed salt water.

World's Uncrowned Hamburger Eating
King Tries for Record on Chicken

DETROIT (AP)—Phil Yazdzik, who set a new hamburger-eating record only Tuesday, pulled up a chair at Richard's Drive-In here today and dug into orders of fried chicken in hopes of setting another mark.

Yazdzik went to work as soon as Richard's opened its doors. He ate through the first order in four minutes flat, washing the meat down with milk and cola.

"I don't know if there's a record for eating fried chicken," the 42-year-old Olyphant, Pa., coal miner said before attacking the orders.

"But I'm going to eat so much that nobody ever will be able to break my record."

No Potatoes or Trimmings

Yazdzik said he was confident he could eat his way through at least 30 orders with little trouble. However, he said his goal was 40. Each order consisted of a half a chicken. He didn't bother with potatoes and other trimmings.

Yazdzik, who claims the title of uncrowned hamburger-eating champion of the world, warmed up to his chicken-eating spree in Chicago Tuesday by disposing of 77 burgers at one sitting. The feat broke his own record of 76.

"I guess I just naturally have a big appetite," he commented.

He works at two jobs and pays an average of $130 a week to keep himself, his wife, and his seven children in victuals. All are hearty eaters.

Volers in Illinois Elect City Officials, Cast Ballots on Special Referendums

Thousands of Illinois voters cast ballots Tuesday in the final local elections of 1955.

In addition to electing mayors and commissioners, voters decided on numerous questions including daylight savings time, bond issues and city management government.

Thirteen towns voted in favor of daylight savings time in local referendums. Fast time was approved by Carrollton, Taylorville, Tallula, Virden, Havana, Divernon, Pawnee, Petersburg, Jerseyville, Carlinville, Palmyra, White Hall and Benld.

However, voters at Greenfield, Beardstown, Moline, Paris, Rock Island, Mount Vernon and Moline turned down daylight savings time. Rock Island also rejected a water fluoridation measure 6,209-2,956.

Three Wet, One Dry

Three Illinois communities voted wet, while another voted dry.

Eldorado, by a vote of 1,409-787, remained dry.

Fulton voted to continue retail sale of liquor and Tampico voters favored maintaining liquor-by-the-drink. Newton also voted wet.

Robert Cooksey was elected mayor of Marion by 74 votes over Leslie Stille. In 1951, Cooksey defeated Stille for city commissioner by 27 votes.

At West Frankfort, John Heaton was elected mayor over H. B. Wilkinson, 2,772-2,457.

At Elgin, Orlo E. Salisbury unseated Mayor Myron M. Lehman, 7,318-4,370. An entirely new city council was elected. New members were Howard Schultz, Gordon D. Abbott, John M. Johnson and William A. Gavelek.

In Peoria, heaviest local vote since 1931, T. J. Trogon Jr. beat Glen A. Hooker, 2,218-1,995 in the race for mayor. Four new commissioners were elected—William R. Quinn, Phillip Bridwell, Pierce F. Lipman and Albert C. Foley.

City Manager at Champaign

Paris voters also turned down daylight savings time and a proposed bond issue for a new lake. But they approved a $300,000 bond issue to improve the sewer system.

Joliet held its first election for mayor and councilman under the council-management form of government which goes into effect May 2.

James Hennessy, son of a former mayor, defeated former FBI agent James Hanley, 11,684-8,353, for the mayor's seat. Six councilmen were elected—Edward J. Daniel, John R. Barner, Theodore Flint, Arthur H. Biederman, William H. Wilson and Paul W. Friedrich. Incumbent Eat the 77 hamburgers—the menu of 20 pounds.

Munch eight dozen rolls.

Down 24 glasses of milk—the same as six quarts.

Wash it down with six bottles of cola.

The hamburgers and fixings were furnished by Sidney Smith, owner of a restaurant chain. Ordinarily, the meal would have cost Yazdzik $37.65.

Refreshed by his snack, Yazdzik gave a few insights on what it's like to carry a real full dinner pail.

He generally starts out the day with a breakfast of 14 hot dogs and two quarts of milk. At lunchtime he eats about three dozen eggs, several pounds of cold cuts, and two more quarts of milk. At dinner time his favorite is four huge servings of spaghetti and meat balls.

In between meals he eats hamburgers "to keep me going."

Yazdzik's championship class was demonstrated recently when he chewed his way through a 14-pound ham to win a bet.

That 76-hamburger record, he revealed, was really something of an accident.

His friends kept track of his intake without him knowing it at a clam bake.

"I wasn't even trying," Yazdzik said.

Funeral Services
Thursday at 2 p. m.
For Frank Webb, 78

Funeral services for Frank Webb, 78, retired coal miner who resided in Buena Vista, and died yesterday at 11:40 a. m. in the Barnes hospital in St. Louis, will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Liberty church. Rev. Paul Frick of Marion will conduct the service and burial will be in the Bankston cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Beulah, and the following children: Walter Webb and Raymond Webb of Detroit, Mich., and one daughter, Mrs. Frank Vaughn, Flint, Mich. Also two stepsons, Paul Sullivan, Detroit, Mich., and Henry Sullivan, Flint, Mich.; a brother, Isaac Webb, Harrisburg, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Conger, Dongola, Ill.; 18 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Jordan, Hine,
Williams, Darnell
Commissioners

Charles McKenzie
Is Re-Elected
Police Magistrate

The council of the city of Harrisburg for the next four years starting May 3 will be composed of Mayor Claude Gibbons and Commissioners Sneed Jordan, Charles R. Hine, Don Williams and Morris Darnell.

These five were elected at the polls yesterday along with Charles McKenzie, who will continue as police magistrate.

Yesterday's balloting, which started off at a brisk pace, slowed down during the day and the final count was a 3,807 total vote, approximately 1,800 less than four years ago, when more than 5,600 went to the polls in the city's final election.

However, in 1951 there was a wet-and-dry referendum here and a strong race for mayor that pulled out the voters. This year there was no race for mayor as Gibbons' opponent pulled out of the activity a week following the primary.

Canvass Vote Today

Complete unofficial results were available and the official vote will be known after the canvass which was to be made by the present city council starting at 2 p. m. today. The canvass was not expected to alter the result.

Unofficial figures show that Gibbons, Harrisburg funeral director, received 2,785 votes to 584 for Hudson Mugge, who withdrew because of illness.

Jordan, a retired Central Illinois Public Service Co. employee and a member of the present water board, had a neck-and-neck race with Charles R. Hine, service station operator, for the top spot in the commissioners' race with Jordan coming out on top by 16 votes.

Jordan's total was 1,953 to 1,937 for Hine.

Third in the running was Don Williams, owner of an insurance firm that bears his name, who had a strong total of 1,767, and Morris Darnell, West Poplar street grocer, was fourth with 1,531, beating out Harry Denny for the post by 127 votes. Darnell had 1,531, Denny 1,404.

Others in the race were Ernest Duncan with 1,268, Charlie Walker with 1,213 and Charles D. Taylor with 1,089.

Take Over on May 3

For police magistrate, McKenzie had 1,584 votes to 1,331 for John Small. McKenzie, elected a justice of the peace, had been appointed the police magistrate to fill out the term to which Gay Brasher was elected four years ago. Brasher gave up the office when he obtained a post with the state.

As well as Jordan, the new mayor has had water board experience, having served as president of the board at one time.

The retiring council, composed of Ralph Horning Jr., mayor; G. R. Johnson, finance commissioner; Henry C. Dempsey, commissioner of public safety; Carl Tuttle, commissioner of streets and alleys; and B. E. May, commissioner of public property, will meet with the new council May 3 and turn over the administration to the incoming group.

Then the new council will organize. The council itself determines which commissioners will take over the four departments.

Then there are the appointments to be announced. The mayor names the city attorney and health physician, the finance commissioner the city clerk and city treasurer, the commissioner of public safety, the police and fire department personnel, the commissioner of streets and alleys the street personnel and the commissioner of public property the city hall custodian and the Sunset Hill cemetery sexton.

Thompsonville Votes Dry

Thompsonville overwhelmingly voted dry in Tuesday's local option. The vote was 147 to 21.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Ed
Corsi Had A "Texas Cop" Following Him Through Europe; Bad Blood Comes Out Between Democratic Chairmen; Paul Butler Doesn't Want Democratic Ex-Chairmen As Members Of His Committee.

WASHINGTON — Ed Corsi, the immigration expert ousted for being too enthusiastic about his job, was immediately seconded by Scott McLeod, the man chiefly responsible for his ouster.

When Corsi went to Europe to survey refugee conditions, a security policeman named Roy Wade, whom Corsi describes as a "Texas cop," was assigned to accompany him, presumably as an assistant.

"I soon learned that Wade was actually shadowing me everywhere I went," Corsi recalls.
"Every night Wade would write reports to McLeod on my comings and goings and the people I talked to, as well as what I said to them."

At first Corsi was amused. But the private-eye business became irritating when Wade would strike a mysterious pose, hand to his mouth, and whisper: "You can't talk about that. It's classified."

While in West Germany, the detective interrupted Corsi with the admonition: "Please, Mr. Corsi, you are discussing State Department secrets!"

"This practically fractured me," recalls Corsi, "because the people I was talking to just happened to be representatives of the State Department."

The payoff occurred when Corsi took a first-hand look at living standards in Red-controlled East Berlin.

"I headed for the shoe counter in an East Berlin department store because shoes are the key to living standards," explains Corsi. "In the United States, an average worker can buy a pair of shoes for a day's wages and have something left over. Behind the iron curtain, it takes about eight days' wages to buy a pair of shoes."

After looking over the shoes in the East Berlin store, Corsi commented: "In the United States, these shoes would be discarded—third-rate stuff."

Suddenly his companion went into his hand-to-mouth routine:
"Please don't say anything like that," he whispered excitedly.
"Don't you realize that we're surrounded by spies? They might create an international incident!"
This was more than Corsi could take.

"I was wrong," he announced in a loud voice. "These shoes aren't third-rate by American standards. They're fourth-rate."

to a friend: "Father will run again." Gov. Averell Harriman got plenty of advice from columnist Fleeson.

Three mayors of the top U. S. cities, all Democrats, gave themselves free and friendly advice—Mayor Wagner of New York, Mayor Clark of Philadelphia, and Mayor Daley, newly elected boss of Chicago.

Mayor Clark's answer to whether he would run for the Senate from Pennsylvania was: "No comment."

DEMOCRATIC SPLIT

Paul Butler, who's done a dynamic job as new chairman of the Democratic national committee, stuffed his at the closed-door committee meeting when Tracy McCracken, homespun Democratic committeeman from Wyoming, proposed that all ex-national chairmen be made members of the committee without the right to vote.

McCracken had discussed this with Dave Lawrence, mayor of Pittsburgh, who favored getting the benefit of such ex-chairmen as Jim Farley, Howard McGrath, Frank McKinney, Bill Boyle, Hormer Cummings, Steve Mitchell et al.

When McCracken made his motion, it was immediately seconded by Margaret O'Riordan, Democratic committeewoman from Massachusetts, but suddenly aroused the ire of new Chairman Butler who was presiding. He asked that India Edwards, vice chairman of the committee, take over the gavel so he could speak on the motion, which he did.

"This comes as a great surprise to me," he said. "I knew nothing about it and see no reason for it."

He said he had planned to appoint an executive advisory committee of distinguished Democrats comprised of ex-chairmen and others.

"But," he argued earnestly,
"were this motion to pass I would consider it an affront to me and a vote of lack of confidence in your present chairman."

Friendly Phil Perlman of Maryland then moved to table the motion. On the vote to table, the chorus of voices for and against appeared by those at the closed-door session to be about equal.

However, Mrs. Edwards gave a snar ruling: "The ayes have it."
McCracken's attempts to get recognized in order to ask for a recorded rather than a voice vote, failed, and the motion to include former national chairmen as members of the national committee was put on the shelf.

Note — Leading Democrats ascribed Butler's opposition to bad-blood with ex-Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney of Indianapolis. Butler, who comes from South Bend, Ind., was opposed for election by McKinney's friends, including Harry Truman. However, the two men seemed to be completely cordial toward each other during the various Sam Rayburn festivities. Mrs. Edwards, who ruled for Butler and against the motion, doesn't like McKinney.

RAYBURN VS. POODLES
Evie Robert, glamor girl of the Democratic party, was twitting
Speaker Sam Rayburn about coming down to Texas to help him get re-elected.

"I'll bring Coco along," she promised, referring to her platinum-blond, neatly hair-died, beribboned French poodle.

"You bring that dog down to Texas," exclaimed Mr. Sam in horror, "I'll murder you. If folks in my district even thought I knew someone with a dog like I'd never get re-elected."

High School Education of Drivers Pays Off

WASHINGTON — (UP) — High school students who pass a course in driver education are now entitled to a 10 per cent reduction in their auto insurance, the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters has announced. The reduction is effective in 39 states and the District of Columbia.

"Driver education courses offered by 10,000 of the nation's high schools are paying dividends," said William G. Carr, executive secretary of the National Education Association.

"Insurance companies, schools and the public need assurance that a minimum program of instruction is being offered in high school driver education. The recently announced plan (10 per cent reduction) indicates that preferred rates will be allowed graduates... where the state department of education certifies that at least 30 hours of classroom instruction and six hours of driving time were given."

Only about 25 per cent of eligible high school students are receiving both classroom and practice driving in 7,000 high schools.

Another 25 per cent receive only classroom instruction in 3,000 high schools.

"This means that 50 per cent, about 1,000,000 students, come of licensable age every year without any driver education," Carr stressed.

Since 1933, when a few high schools started to teach driver education, it has helped to reduce the number of deaths per 100,000-000 miles of vehicle travel, from 15.6 in 1933 to 7.1 in 1953.

"If we don't pay now to equip our boys and girls with safe driving through high school courses, we will pay later — for countless accidents," Carr added.

Many high schools operate complete driver education programs at costs averaging $35 per student.

Billy Abney Wins Trip to RA Camp At Lake Salateeska

first place winner in the Saline Baptist Training Union sword drill was the boy winning a trip to Royal Ambassador's Camp, at Lake Salateeska, the Baptist summer camp near Pinckneyville.

This was a state award, received at Vandalia Sunday, where "Sword Drill" winners from various associations competed for state honors. Billy participated in the junior contest, and was the only boy

U. S. Air Force Develops Disaster Assistance Program

The Air Force Medical Service is developing a disaster assistance program for protection of personnel on United States Air Force Bases and in adjacent civilian communities. It was announced today by Sgt. Demediuk, U. S. Air Force recruiter.

Personnel and equipment are being formed into teams for alert duty whenever disaster strikes. They will perform life-saving service for Air Force members, families and community neighbors.

First demonstration of a disaster assistance team's operations was held at Bolling Air Force Base, Washington, D. C.

Following the simulated destruction of the base hospital by a tornado, an Air Force Disaster Assistance Team was flown from Donaldson AFB, S. C., to Bolling in less than three hours, elapsed time after the alert was received.

With the base hospital "destroyed" and its medical personnel "injured," a C-124 Globemaster landed at Bolling. Abroad was a com-

Campus Mothers' Day at University of Illinois April 29-30

URBANA-CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Next week end, April 29-30, Campus Mothers' Day will be celebrated at the University of Illinois where the idea of such a collegiate observance originated in 1921.

The date is always a week before national Mothers' Day so that students may join with other children at home in honoring their mothers.

This year is the 35th anniversary of the University of Illinois Mother's Day.

Members of the medical team set up tents where the "wounded" were treated. The successful demonstration exercise was observed by Department of Defense and Air Force officials.

Since the exercise proved that rapid air movement of a disaster team to be a "Stricken" area is practical, the Air Force Medical Service will continue to develop this program at bases in the United States and later at overseas bases.

ers' Association in which Mrs. B. G. Funkhouser, Harrisburg, represents Saline county as county chairman.

The association will hold its annual meeting at 10:30 a. m. Saturday, April 29, in the Illini Union Bldg. ballroom. The county chairman will be hostesses at a coffee hour preceding this meeting. They will also have a meeting and dinner the preceding day.

Other events of the week end include the annual University Honors Day ceremonies honoring top scholars, Military Honors review and ceremonies, crowning of the May Queen, student spring musical show, "Good News," and many others.

Hill Addresses

Eldorado Rotary Club

E. Bishop Hill, district manager of the Harrisburg Social Security Administration office, was guest speaker Tuesday noon at the Rotary club in Eldorado.

Mr. Hill discussed the social security amendments of 1954 and explained in particular the new retirement test, the disability freeze and the extended coverage of domestic servants.

Film on Bible At First Christian Church Sunday

The first section of a historic three-part sound film, "Our Bible—How it Came to Us," will be shown in Harrisburg at the First Christian church on Sunday, April 24, at 7:30 p. m. it was announced today by Rev. Glen Daugherty.

"Our Bible—How it Came to Us" traces the history and development of the Holy Bible from the first century A. D. to the present time. It was produced by the American Bible society and ranks as one of the most authentic Bible films ever made.

The first section of the film takes one back to the very beginnings of the Bible. After a brief opening in the modern day, the film flashes back to Nazareth in the time of the Philip explains the book of Isaiah first century, and shows Jesus in the synagogue reading from the scroll of Isaiah. The film then unfolds the story of how the Old Testament was formed and how translations of the Bible into Greek spread throughout the eastern Mediterranean world and formed the Scriptures of the early Christians.

The formation of the New Testament is dramatically portrayed, first by showing how Paul, working as a tentmaker in Corinth, dictates the first of the Epistles, and how the Gospels came to be written by Luke, Matthew and John. It comes to a close by showing how this collection of writings about Jesus and his teachings was added to the Scriptures of the Jews, making the Bible as it is known today.

It is the hope of the American Bible Society and those who show these pictures that the films shall stimulate more wide-spread reading of the Word of God. The other two sections in the series are "The Bible Spreads Across Europe" and "The Making of the English Bible." The dates they will be shown will be announced later. The public is invited to see these interesting and inspirational films.

About Town And Country

past. And with the miles upon miles of such streets in Harrisburg, it would take far more money than is available to do the job up just like we'd like to see it.

I think we have a fine police force right now. I can recall no better one. As I said, there may be incidents with individual officers that you didn't like, but as a whole the force has been courteous and as efficient as such as six men, including the chief, could be in a community of 12,000.

You may not know it, but the local police in the past couple or three years have cleaned out some situations that were getting pretty bad—getting pretty near the hoodlum stage. And for the most part, our motorists drive at safe and sane speeds on our city streets. The police may have seemed strict at times, but it has paid off in the long run.

And if parking meter restrictions aren't going to be enforced, you might as well take all of them out tomorrow and let the people who work uptown, like myself, take the choice spots around the business district and let the customers suffer. I've paid a few parking tickets but the violation was always my fault. And when you go to the city you don't expect—or get—special parking privileges. If you park wrong your car gets hauled off in a hurry and you really have some expense.

But getting down to the council as a whole. Although there were times when things seemed a bit dictatorial, the council that is going out took hold of the Lake Harrisburg proposition and pulled it through to completion, with the aid of a good water board. That is the greatest city council achievement that has occurred since I've been reporting. We should be proud of the council for this and the council members should be proud of themselves.

Only flaw in the lake picture, in my opinion, has been the handling of the cabin sites. The publicity on their availability came after everything was cut and dried. And there were certain other aspects of this matter, which were a bit disheartening.

There has been some overlapping of authority in that several matters strictly within the authority of the Water Board, have been taken over by the City Council. With the beginning of a new Council's operations, this might be one thing that should be worked out. Under the ordinance by which the Water and Sewer departments were organized, the Water Board is authorized to run the water and sewer department, employing all personnel, managing and initiating all operations. The City Council's authority actually is limited only to vetoing, by resolution, and by a minimum of four votes, any action of the Water Board as reported to the Council from Water Board minutes.

Governors Demand End to Strikes in Southern States

ATLANTA (AP)—Southern governors today gave company and union officials an ultimatum to end two major 38-day strikes that have idled an estimated 80,000 persons and hurt the region's economy.

The governors called on striking employees of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad to return to work immediately. They also set up a conference for Saturday in a nine-state telephone strike.

These moves were signaled by a unanimous resolution by governors of six states and representatives of six other states in an emergency conference held Tuesday in Nashville, Tenn.

Radford Says Red Buildup Shows They Still Intend to Take Formosa

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adm. Arthur W. Radford said today as he left on an emergency trip to Formosa that the Chinese Communist buildup shows the Reds have not retreated from their announced intention "to take Formosa by force, if necessary."

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said that Formosa defense forces, including those of the United States, "are as ready as we can be."

Radford and Walter Robertson, assistant secretary of state on Far Eastern affairs, left for Formosa about two hours after the Defense Department announced they were going there "in view of the tense situation."

Neither Radford nor Robertson would say that they were making the trip at President Eisenhower's request. But Robertson said the trip has been discussed with Mr. Eisenhower several times during the last several weeks.

Situation "Highly Serious"
State Department spokesman Henry Suydam told reporters "it might be a reasonable assumption."

Speed Limit Bill Advances to House Floor

of the committee hearing the measure. The committee members then voted to call any legislator to ask questions.

Barnabas Sears, Aurora, chairman of the Legal Committee which drafted the article, asked the legislators to permit the people to vote on the amendment. He pointed out the measure requires a second referendum in 1958 on the question of how judges will be selected. This is the most controversial point of the amendment.

Remapping Groups Meet
The amendment will be voted on after the appearance of witnesses opposing the measure next week. The House Judiciary Committee Tuesday tabled a bill to require the death penalty for forcible rape. Committees working on legislative remapping in both houses held brief meetings. Subcommittees which drafted much-criticized Chicago Senate and House districts were instructed to work over their portions of bills which probably will be submitted to the Legislature in two weeks.

The Senate Highway Committee approved a bill for vertical exhausts for trucks and buses over the objections of truck and bus industry witnesses. Gov. William G. Stratton announced the signing of six bills into law, including a measure permitting the extension of taxes in a non-high school district to cover payment of outstanding bonds and debts.

Cook County Circuit Judge Julius H. Miner's long-sought "cooling-off period" divorce law was introduced with bipartisan support in the House. The bill would require 60 days between filing of a summons in a divorce case and the filing of the suit itself. The new bill tries to overcome objections which caused the Supreme Court to throw out a measure passed two years ago.

72 Bills Introduced
Among 72 other bills introduced Tuesday were measures to:

Ban the sale of any new passenger car after next Jan. 1 which has a motor of more than 200 horsepower.
Provide a Korean war veterans bonus through racing and cigarette tax revenues. Another bonus bill had been introduced previously.
Hike the maximum tax limit in counties under 10,000 population from .125 per cent to .20 per cent.
Give Illinois-owned race horses stall preference at small-purse claiming races.

Lower the age at which boys can be charged with forcible rape to 14.
Impose a Sunday "blue law" banning alcoholic liquor sales.
Increase the penalty for throwing trash on public roads.

Vic Raschi to Be Released By Cardinals

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Vic Raschi, an old pro whose pitching arm has fallen behind his stout heart, took the news of his impending unconditional release from the St. Louis Cardinals calmly today.

His manager, Eddie Stanky, voiced the feeling of the ball club. "We admired him as a great competitor."

Raschi, oldest man on the team at 36, was shelled out of the box in the second inning Monday night by the Cincinnati Redlegs. And it appeared today that as far as the St. Louis front office was concerned it was his make-or-break chance.

He was hit hard, escaping a first inning score only on a great catch by Wally Moon. In the second, Ed Bailey led off with a triple and when he scored on Wally Post's single, Card relievers scampered into action in the left-field bullpen. Raschi's shoulders seemed to sag a bit when he heard the solid plunk of the ball in the bullpen catchers' mitts and persistent jeers from the stands.

"Get him out of there" and "let's put in a pitcher" were the mildest shouts.

He refused to look back, hitching up his pants and returning to work. But he just didn't have it. Joe Nuxhall singled, Johnny Temple sacrificed one run home and Glen Gorbous drove in another with a double. That was all for big Vic.

There was a ripple of applause along with the boos as he trudged off the field — apparently from those who remembered the brilliant Raschi of the New York Yankees.

The younger Vic of that day was a fireballer who righthanded his way to a New York mark of 120-50. He won five and lost three World Series games in his even years with the Yanks.

But a sore arm plagued him last year — his first with the Cards, and he ended with his first losing major league season at 8-9.

Bull Dogs Beat Foxes, 4 to 2

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs, with hurler David Anglin striking out 11 batters in the seven-inning contest, beat McLeansboro, 4 to 2, in a baseball game yesterday on the town park diamond.

Anglin allowed six hits, having a no-hitter until the fifth when the Foxes put together four of their hits for their two runs. They got one more in the sixth, and one in the seventh.

Mauling on the mound for McLeansboro, allowed seven hits. Coach Lawrence Caluffetti's boys scored two in the second on a walk to Don Price and a single by Ken Spurlock, with Jim Cummins driving in one run with a single and the other coming in on Anglin's fielder's choice.

Another scored in the fourth on Anglin's single and Cummins' triple. In the fifth Wayman Hefner singled, advanced on an out and scored on Spurlock's single.

Harrisburg will be host to Marion at 4 p. m. Thursday.

Dusty Rhodes Still Seeks First Hit of Season

NEW YORK (AP)—Dusty Rhodes of the Giants admitted today he will have to come down off cloud nine pretty soon and go to work again.

Rhodes enjoyed the kind of year all ballplayers dream about in 1954 when he delivered spectacularly in the pinch during the regular season and in the World Series, but so far this year he hasn't hit safely once in the five games he has been sent up to bat.

"I don't see how I could have the kind of year I had last year again," Rhodes said, recalling his .341 average during the regular campaign and his one-man devastation against Cleveland in the World Series.

"Everything I did last year was right," Dusty said. "You can't expect to do that every year. Right now, I ain't shootin' for anything in particular. Just swingin' the bat. I'll be gettin' me some hits pretty soon."

Rhodes, meanwhile, is doing everything more or less the same at the plate as he did last year. "I still go after the first pitch that's over," he admitted. "When you're pinch hitting, you can't take too many strikes, you know."

If nothing else, Dusty says he's in better physical shape now than he was in 1954. He weighed 187 pounds last season but he's down to a trim 184 now.

Dodgers Seek Ninth Victory In Row to Tie Record; Cardinals Win in 11th, 6-5

By United Press
Rookies Don Zimmer and Ed Roebuck threw their weight in Brooklyn's early "pennant push" today, as the rampant Dodgers sought a ninth straight victory which would equal the major league record for a fast getaway.

Zimmer, filling in for the ailing PeeWee Reese, blasted a two-run homer which produced the winning margin Tuesday night while Roebuck, a 24-year-old right-hander, came through with a fine relief performance for the second straight game in the Dodgers' 7-6 win over the Philadelphia Phillies. The victory ran Brooklyn's winning streak to eight games — one short of the record for a season's opening shared by the 1913 New York Giants, 1940 Dodgers and 1944 St. Louis Browns.

Manager Walt Alston has nominated Billy Loes, a 13-game winner in 1954, to oppose the Phillies at Ebbets Field tonight. The Phillies will counter with Steve Ridzik, who has a 1-3 lifetime record against Brooklyn.

Zimmer Hits First Homer
Zimmer, who played in only 23 games for Brooklyn last season, hit his first major league homer off Curt Simmons in the eighth inning to give the Dodgers a 7-4 lead. Willie Jones' two-run homer off Jim Hughes cut the margin to 7-6 in the bottom of the inning but then Roebuck hustled out of the bullpen to preserve the lead, and earned Don Newcombe his second win.

Brooklyn's sizzling opening pace has shaken Alston's sluggers loose from every other team in the circuit except the pennant-minded Milwaukee Braves, who squeezed out a 3-2 win over the Chicago Cubs Tuesday. The Braves, combining sound pitching with a dangerous attack, have won five of their seven games to stay within 2 1/2 games of the Dodgers. No other team in the circuit is more than one game over .500 and the world champion Giants trail the Dodgers by 5 1/2 games.

Conley Wins First
Right-hander Gene Conley struck out seven batters to gain his first win of the year for Milwaukee when Bob Rush cracked in the eighth inning and forced in the winning run with four walks. Hank Aaron, who has hit safely in all 13 games, was out in the 11th.

Wide Storm Front Moving Into Midwest

By United Press

A spring squall line raged across the Midwest for the third straight day today and blinding dust halted traffic in parts of the South-west.

The Midwest, ripped by storms which were the worst in 20 years in some areas, was warned to be ready for a wide storm front sweeping out of the Dakotas.

The squall line, trailing cooler air behind it, was expected to reach central Lake Huron by tonight. Michigan was told to expect 50-mile-per-hour winds.

Two more storm fronts were sweeping eastward through Oklahoma, threatening hail and high winds.

Elsewhere in the Southwest, winds up to 69 miles per hour chased up billowing dust clouds over most of Kansas and parts of Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, and Oklahoma.

The gusts hit their peak at Pueblo, Colo., Tuesday, cutting visibility to zero. Trees were uprooted and, in the northeast corner of the state, dust-filled winds stopped traffic.

In West Texas, the dust cut visibility to a half mile at Childress and to a mile at Big Spring.

The Midwest, meanwhile, was weathering its third straight day of ripping spring storms.

Tornado winds swept across the area Monday night, hitting the wealthy Chicago suburb of Evanston with the worst storm in 20 years, and Tuesday winds rose to 70 miles per hour in northern Illinois.

Editors Challenge Restrictions on Gov't Information

WASHINGTON — A group of newspaper editors today challenged recent White House and Pentagon orders restricting release of government information on security grounds.

The challenge was made in a report by the American Society of Newspaper Editors' Freedom of Information Committee to the organization's board of directors.

Committee Chairman J. Russell Wiggins, managing editor of the Washington Post and Times Herald, referred particularly to a directive by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson which has allowed news from the Pentagon and to a statement by White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty on behalf of President Eisenhower.

The Wilson directive put a tight rein on release of all military information. Hagerty said a few days later that Mr. Eisenhower feels there has been too much release of technical information which could be of value to a potential enemy.

The Wiggins committee said one of the most disquieting developments in the field of information freedom has been the "recent obliteration of the line between classified material not available to the public and unclassified, technical material never classified at all or officially declassified."

least three lives. Near Wellman, Iowa, a lightning bolt killed Merle D. Venzke, 29, as he sought shelter in a hog house. Fog was blamed for the crash of a small plane near Racine, Wis., which killed Frank Mitzen, 65, and pilot Melvin Feil, 37.

Secret Service Probes Copies of McCarthy Check

WASHINGTON — Chief U. E. Baughman said today that the U. S. Secret Service wants to know who produced copies of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's check for a $1,056.75 federal income tax refund.

Secret Service agents seized one such copy in New York Tuesday on the ground that it is illegal to photograph any government obligation or security like a check or a bond. The copies began turning up by mail at newspaper and news service offices in New York and elsewhere.

Baughman said that, as an investigating agency, the Secret Service is interested in "who printed them and under what conditions." He said further action, once those facts have been established, would be up to the Justice Department or individual U. S. attorneys.

The new controversy swirled around McCarthy as the Wisconsin Republican pointed to the tax refund check as evidence to "lay to rest finally and forever the claim that there is something wrong with McCarthy's finances." He said it was proof that the government had given him a clean bill of health on charges that he engaged in tax irregularities in 1946-52.

McCarthy told a news conference Tuesday that members of two Senate committees that dealt with his finances for that period should apologize to the American people.

He referred to the Senate Elections subcommittee which looked into his finances and other matters in 1952, and to the so-called Wat-

U. I. Enrollment Totals 23,917

URBANA-CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — University of Illinois second semester enrollment of 23,917 is up 6 1-2 per cent over a year ago, according to tabulations just completed.

He Went to Wrong Man for Right Advice

DECATUR, Ill. — Mayor Paul Egan of Aurora, Ill., wanted some advice on "how to beat" the city manager plan when he wrote to Mayor Robert E. Willis of Decatur.

Egan congratulated Willis on the defeat of the plan at a referendum here. He wanted advice on "how to do the same thing when it comes up at Aurora."

Mayor Willis was one of the plan's strongest supporters in the local referendum.

AROUND SPRINGFIELD

By DON E. CHAMBERLAIN

Dirksen Only Candidate as Politicians Mark Time for '56

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special to The Daily Register)—The politicians, except for U. S. Sen. Everett R. Dirksen, Pekin, continue to mark time. Only Dirksen is an out-and-out candidate. He squeezes in every opportunity to mend his fences for Republican renomination and re-election in 1956. And always in the offing for Dirksen is the chance political lightning might hit him for the GOP vice presidential spot.

Others are active too but they haven't made their declarations for the office they seek. Gov. William G. Stratton brushed off a newspaperman's query recently as to whether he would be a candidate for re-election. He said he has been too busy working at being governor to give any thought as to whether he would seek a second term.

When and if Stratton does announce there probably will be a deluge of declarations of intentions. Most likely Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter, East Moline, and State Auditor of Public Accounts Orville E. Hodge, Granite City, would declare for re-election and probably will be likewise for Lieut. Gov. John W. Chapman, Springfield, and Atty. Gen. Latham Castle, Sandwich.

Benton Man in Race

Two enigmas are State Treasurer Warren Wright, Park Ridge, and former state treasurer Elmer J. Hoffman, Wheaton. Hoffman is expected to try for another two year term as treasurer (it doesn't become a four-year job until 1959) or for clerk of the Illinois State Supreme Court, a six-year job at an annual salary of $10,000.

When the court clerkship was made available by the recent death of Earle Benjamin Searcy, Springfield, it was thought Wright might be interested but thus far he shied away. Statewide offices which Wright has sought in the past are secretary of state (in 1952 he lost the nomination to Carpenter) and U. S. Senator (in 1942 he lost to C. Wayland Brooks, Chicago, for the nomination).

While the big guns mark time a southern Illinoisan has tossed his hat into the GOP ring for governor. He is Judge Sid M. Ward, Benton, who sent a printed card to newspapers and to many GOP officeholders saying: "Illinois needs a real Republican governor and I intend to be a candidate in 1956 unless some other good Republican, better qualified, declares by September 1st, 1955."

Wright has some Republicans worried. He cannot run to succeed himself so he reportedly has his eye on the governorship and Carpenter's job. He has hired John Hall, Sterling Republican city chairman, as chief clerk, and Theophilus Ponting, Champaign, as assistant treasurer. A largely attended $50-a-plate banquet was held in his honor at Chicago recently. It is said to have netted upwards of $50,000.

Talk Powell for Senate

Democrat activity is nil except for some sentiment among members of the State General Assembly in favor of State Rep. Paul Powell, Vienna, who served one term as House Speaker and was House minority leader three times. There's been talk among members about getting up a luncheon for Powell to launch him for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Other Democrat senatorial possibilities include former U. S. Sen. Scott W. Lucas, Havana; Cong. Peter F. Mack, Carlinville; and State Supreme Court Justice Harry Hershey, Taylorville. Cong. Mel Price, East St. Louis, has been mentioned but state leaders feel his high seniority and eligibility for an important house committee chairmanship makes it important he continue in the lower house.

Price is now in his sixth consecutive term in Congress. He reportedly is not excited about being a candidate for U. S. senator with the risk it involves when he has so little difficulty running up huge majorities in the Illinois 24th district (Madison and St. Clair counties). In his last two contests he won re-election by majorities of more than 50,000 votes.

Governor Possibilities

The U. S. senatorship, by custom, goes to downstate this year and speculation for the most part is restricted to downstaters although there is some talk that former Gov.

Adlai E. Stevenson, Chicago, might run. For governor, Democrat possibilities include: Cook County Sheriff Joseph Lohman; Cook Treasurer Herbert C. Paschen; former Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett; and Cook County Board President Daniel Ryan.

Larger - size automobile license plates are likely in Illinois next year. A bill, said to have the support of Secretary of State Carpenter, East Moline, calls for issuance of six by 12 inch plates at a reported additional cost of $150,000 (or $500,000 in all) for 1956 and 1957. They would replace present plates which have a width of 5 1/2 inches and a length ranging from nine to 12 1/2 inches.

All the new plates will be in full size which would make plates with one, two or three numbered digits stand out. W. B. Westbrook, Harrisburg, chief clerk of the Automobile Department in the secretary of state's office, says car manufacturers, safety experts and the American Automobile Association favors enactment of laws to standardize plates in all the states.

Att'y Frank Trobaugh and His Two Daughters Share Music Honors

Will Be Honored Musician, Guest Soloists May 7

CARBONDALE, Ill. — A West Frankfort attorney and his two daughters will share top billing as "Honored Musician" and guest soloists at the Sixth Annual Southern Illinois Music Festival May 7.

Though his own musical education was limited, Frank E. Trobaugh brought recognition to the area through his choral activities and was largely responsible for the origin of the Music Festival here. His daughters, a flutist and a harpist, have been highly successful in the professional ranks.

Joan Trobaugh Snider has been harpist with the Minneapolis, Norfolk and National Symphony orchestras. Her sister, Lee Margaret Trobaugh Stephens, formerly a teacher at Stephens college, is now teaching at the Long School of Music in Cambridge, Mass.

Floyd V. Wakeland, Festival director and associate professor of music at Southern Illinois university, said the "Honored Musician" role is given each year to an area resident who has made distinguished contributions to music in Southern Illinois. Guest soloists are musicians who have their roots in the area but have achieved wider recognition for their musical talents.

Trobaugh, who made his first appearance as a singer when he was 10 and was directing a Murphysboro church choir when he was 15, founded the Egyptian Choral Club in West Frankfort in 1934. That group won first place in the Chicago Music Festival four times, was featured in radio, concert appearances and recordings, and sang at the Chicago World's Fair.

Pursuing his musical avocation while he practiced law, Trobaugh directed the Egyptian Music Festival at West Frankfort which was succeeded by the Southern Illinois Music Festival at Southern Illinois university. He has directed the First Methodist church choir at West Frankfort for 26 years. Trobaugh also played piccolo in his high school band, but his professional training in music was mostly limited to one hour a day at the Conservatory of Music at Valparaiso University while he was studying for the bar.

Both of his daughters attended Stephens college and both played with the Burrall Symphony orchestra at Columbia. Lee Margaret won a four-year scholarship to the Curtis Institute of Music and later studied at Columbia University and the University of Pennsylvania. After teaching and playing professionally in Cleveland, she moved to Cambridge where her husband, formerly with the Cleveland orchestra, is studying law.

Joan Trobaugh Snider had become first harpist with the National Music Camp Symphony by the time she was 14. The same year she was named first harpist with the St. Louis Philharmonic orchestra and Youth Audition winner of the contest sponsored by the Women's Association of the St. Louis Symphony. She has been a member of five major American symphony orchestras and has given recitals in New York's Town Hall and Carnegie Hall.

Now living in Atlanta, she is a member of the Summer Harp Colony of America at Camden, Maine, under Carlos Salzedo, her former teacher.

Next Legion Boss Heeded Son's Query

By NEA Service
BATTLE CREEK, Mich. — One night after six-year-old "Add" Wagner, III, had finished his evening prayer he looked up and asked:
"Daddy, am I going to have to go to war and fight?"
His father, J. Addington Wagner, a prominent 41-year-old attorney here, mumbled a reply designed to pacify the youngster. But the lad's query started him thinking and he wound up arriving at two conclusions.
He decided that his son might have to go to war, just as he had done, as a Navy officer in the Pacific during World War II.

He also decided if his son did have to fight for his country he wanted the country to be as prepared as possible, to make sure that the boy would not be a victim of "too little, too late."
From this thinking he also made up his mind to pursue his work in the American Legion even more ambitiously than he had been doing, and if possible, become national commander some day. He had already held several national committee jobs in the Legion.

Well, barring an act of God between now and next fall, Add Wagner will be the next commander of the Legion. By some mysterious process known as "king making," the Legion selects its new commander about half-way between national conventions.
There will be a formal election at the next fall convention, with campaigns and roll calls, but this contest is more of a test of strength to see who is leading for the job for the following year. This may sound a little strange but that's the way Legion politics work.

Wagner insists he can't assume he will be the next commander until after the convention. But if he is, he says, he will not forget his son's query. He will devote his administration to encouraging maximum preparedness of the country against enemy attack.

J. ADDINGTON WAGNER: Junior's question stirred him up.

Southern Illinois Flower Show School May 11-13

CARBONDALE, Ill. — The Fifth Southern Illinois Flower Show School will be held at Southern Illinois University May 11-13, according to Mrs. W. M. Gersbacher, Carbondale, local chairman.
Mrs. Ruth Kistner, Glendale, N. Y., widely known writer, lecturer, and flower arranger; and Dr. J. R. Kamp, University of Illinois horticulturist, will be visiting instructors for the school. The first two days will be devoted to lectures and demonstrations, the third day to examinations on horticulture and flower arrangement.
The school will appeal especially to members of garden clubs in the area, Mrs. Gersbacher says. It is designed to give area persons general knowledge of growing, arranging and exhibiting flowers.
This is the final in a series of five annual courses of instruction sponsored for area persons by The Garden Club of Illinois, Inc., and the SIU Division of University Extension. In addition to its educational purposes the school assists persons taking examinations to obtain a recognized national certificate as an amateur flower show judge. However, interested persons may enroll for any of the lecture sessions without taking examinations.
Mrs. Jesse W. Harris, 402 South Forest avenue, Carbondale, is in charge of enrollment.

Family Employment Is Not Covered By Social Security

The Social Security amendments of 1954 produced many changes but none so far as family employment is concerned, according to E. Bishop Hill, district manager of the Harrisburg Social Security Administration office.

Work performed as an employee by a parent for his son or daughter, by a child under 21 for his parent, by a husband for his wife, or by a wife for her husband is not covered by the law. Such work is considered family employment and does not count toward social security benefits. Neither is social security tax payable in the case of family employment.

The family employment exception applies to foster or step-relationships as well as to natural or adoptive relationships. This exception has been the law since 1939, Mr. Hill concluded.

Cancer Cost

The United States will have about 500,000 new cancer cases this year, according to estimates. That means a loss of 3,500,000 man-years of work, and will cost society $12,000,000,000 in lost goods and services.

DEATH OF A LEGEND

By WILL HENRY

Copyright 1954 by Will Henry. Used by arrangement with Random House, Inc. Distributed by NEA Service.

THE STORY: At the age of eight, Jesse James has already embarked on a life of crime. His first step was the kidnapping of an escaped slave from the home of a Kansas abolitionist in 1856.

It was in February of the fifth spring following the boys' liberation of Uncle Eben that the first rocket from Fort Moultrie ran up into the southern night and exploded over Fort Sumter. The echo of Confederate cannon-fire released by its fiery signal carried growling across the land.

Frank James, coming a full 18 and no longer the mild-mannered "Buck" of the boyhood years, enlisted in the rebel Missouri State Guard. Cole Younger, now 17 and a man grown, hesitated between his loyal desire to join up and his bounden duty to stay at home and work the land. In the end he listened to his mother, staying on at the family farm near Harrisonville in Cass County.

Up at Centerville in Clay County, Dingus, now rising 14, underwent the same struggle but with less cause. The situation had not yet deteriorated to the point of enlisting little better than 13-year-olds. He, like Cole, stayed on the land, that land being the Centerville farm of his new stepfather, Dr. Reuben Samuel.

Dr. Samuel was a quit, well-educated medical doctor to whom Dingus looked with great respect. He was, in fact, the first real father the boy had known; his natural parent and his mother's first husband, the Rev. Robert James, an ordained minister, had abandoned his family to disappear in the California gold rush of '49.

Three weeks after the South's first smashing victory at Bull Run, Sterling Price and his Missouri Guard clashed at Wilson Creek with the first regular Union troops to penetrate the area. Frank, a boot corporal in Price's irregular cavalry, distinguished himself in the victorious action and was granted a 30-day furlough.

On his return from Wilson Creek, Frank became the idol of his clansmen in general and of young Dingus in particular. Shortly, reports of the latter's boastful accounts of Frank's rebel exploits arrived in the Union town of Liberty. As promptly, the commander of the Union state militia garrison saw his duty. Within the hour his men were riding. Before daylight of Aug. 15, Frank was considering the freedoms of Confederate speech from within the limestone walls of Liberty's Union lockup.

Shortly before noon the garrison commander received telegraphed instructions from his area corps commander to the following unhappy effect: State Sen. Erasmus R. Cole, firstly a loyal blood-claimant of Jesse's mother and only secondly a lip-service Union man, had made official protest to the arrest. The Senator personally guaranteed the future loyalty of young James, and demanded his immediate release on parole.

Frank went free before the day was up. Some time during the week of Aug. 20, 1861, Frank slipped his Union parole to vanish into the nameless ranks of Charley Quantrell's Confederate guerrillas. It became at once inevitable that the 14-year-old Jesse would attempt to follow him.

The favorite tale is that of the serious-minded, Bible-quoting Frank, prevailing upon his younger brother to return to the Samuel farm and "stay by his faithful mother's side." The simple fact is that Quantrell himself laughed the baby-faced candidate out of the bandit camp, hastening his exit with a well-placed cavalry boot.

By July of the following summer, the guerrilla stage was set for Jesse's entrance. In that month the Jayhawkers, under "Shawnee" Harker, invaded Harrisonville, putting the town to the torch. Levelled among its ashes was old Colonel Younger's famed livery stable. Within 30 days the Colonel himself was found murdered upon a lonely road near Independence. Mrs. Younger and the children fled Harrisonville, seeking refuge on the family farm. That winter the Jayhawkers, again under Harker, returned and destroyed the farm. It was too much for young Cole. In desperation he went over to the guerrillas of George Todd, the second in growing fame among the leaders of the Missouri irregulars.

On Nov. 14 Cole and Todd, with four other guerrillas, trapped Harker in a Kansas City saloon. The latter, with five of his men, was playing poker at a back table. Cole and his followers, disguised as Federal cavalrymen, entered the room at 11 p. m. Outside, his clumsy uniform coat turned high against the sting of the wet November snow, a pale-eyed, blinking boy held their nervous horses in instant readiness.

Approaching the table, Cole waited politely until Harker glanced up, then asked quietly: "Excuse me, sir, are you Mr. Harker?" "I am," grunted the other. "Who might be asking?" "Cole Younger," replied the soft-voiced Union soldier, and whipped out two pistols, and shot the Red Leg leader dead in his chair. And Jesse James had held his horse!

The following month a party of Federal militia, still on the trail of the vanished Cole, shortly down on the Samuel place, shortly before dusk. Angered at failing to find the wanted man in hiding there, they seized Dr. Samuel with the announced intention of jailing him as a Southern sympathizer.

When the ex-Mrs. Robert James, a gaunt, fierce-eyed woman well fitted by harsh nature and training to be the mother of outlaws, sprang to his defense she was roughly handled. Dingus, literally weeping with rage, leaped at the jeering troopers. He was knocked down and, on the orders of the young lieutenant commanding the search party, held and flogged unmercifully. The rest is threadbare legend. The detachment at once departed, taking Dr. Samuel only far enough down the road to string him up to the nearest tree. Dingus and his mother, trailing him, cut him down in time and he survived to become the physician in constant, shadowy attendance to the future wounds of his savage stepsons. Fact or folklore, it could not have altered the result. With the mistreatment of his beloved mother, and with his own brutal flogging, Dingus James, like Cole Younger before him, had had enough. Within the year a more evil name began to be heard along the border: Jesse James!

In rough-voiced council before the patched remnant of a Union dog-tent sat the fabulous William F. "Bloody Bill" Anderson, fresh from his major part in the recent Confederate guerrilla sacking and burning of Lawrence, Kan. Flanking him squatted eight of his chief lieutenants. Confronting the uncertain tempers of his tough group stood an understandably awkward Cole Younger.

"Here, now, my young bucko," Anderson was growling at Cole, "you aiming to tell us you got a friend that's only just turned 16, what's fitten to ride with the likes of us? Why, I ain't even decided to leave you join up yet, let alone no wet-nose friend of yours. What's his name now, Younger?"

Cole took an errand ember back into the fire, kept his head down. "Dingus James," he said at last, uncomfortably. "Dingus James!" Cole winced. A body would have thought, from the way Anderson roared it, that he had been arrow-shot square through his broad behind. "I wouldn't let that flicker-eyed runt follow me. Why, Frank himself says he's crazy as a turpentine cat. That puny squirt couldn't get into no camp of mine with a pass from General Price himself!"

"Oh, couldn't he, now?" In startled response to the thin, high-pitched query, the eyes of the outlaw circle swept past Bloody Bill to the entrance of the tent behind him. Nobody, Anderson included, said a word. To a man they simply sat and stared. And with good reason. Somehow, while his friend Cole had been stalling for him, the despised subject of Bloody Bill's outburst had got past the guerrilla pickets and into their leaders' tent. He was standing insolently now in its ragged entrance.

At 16, Jesse stood not over five feet six, including the considerable uplift of his Union jackboots. He wore hickory homespun britches under a cavalry-issue overcoat. A black slouch hat, its brim riding his jug-handle ears, and the belted on sag of an old revolver completed his attire.

Overcoming their original astonishment at the boy's being able to penetrate their midst undetected, the guerrillas, still heady over their successes at Lawrence, broke out in a coarse laugh.

The laughter stopped. Bloody Bill heaved himself up off his haunches, moved in on Jesse. "You got a big mouth, boy. Lemme tell you a few things you shouldn't leave come out of it." He towered menacingly over the slender youth, a guerrilla giant threatening a tender child. Jesse cut him off with an unqualified sneer, together with a quick blink of his blue eyes and some thin-lipped advice. "I don't scare, mister," he said, "so you may as well leave off sweating yourself." The effrontery paid off.

Supreme Court Rules Sale of Sparklers Legal

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—The Illinois Supreme Court today declared the Chicago College of Osteopathy is a "reputable" medical school and ruled the sale of sparklers is legal. In the osteopathy case, the high court affirmed an appellate court decision finding the medical school "in good standing."

The Superior Court of Cook County upheld Puffer.

But the high court sent the matter back to the department today, with direction for further action and a statement that the "grounds for denying recognition . . . are all invalid."

In the sparklers case, the court affirmed a judgment of the Cook County Circuit court, which stopped state officials from enforcing a 1953 law concerning fireworks against the Acme Fireworks Corp., Chicago.

The state had held sparklers illegal because the law prohibited fireworks with "visible effects."

The great brown monarch butterfly secretes an acid fluid which is distasteful to birds, making it immune from their attacks.
